PRESIDENT'S FATHER NEARS THE FINAL CALL

COL. COOLIDGE CAN LIVE BUT A FEW HOURS MORE

FATHER OF PRESIDENT CANNOT LIVE MORE THAN 48
HOURS

DR. ALBERT M. CRAM MAKES A STATEMENT FOLLOWING VISIT

COLONEL COOLIDGE IS GRADUALLY WEAKENING

Plymouth, Vt., March 18.—Colonel John C. Coolidge continued to sink during the afternoon. At 3:35 Dr. Albert M. Cram, Coolidge's physician, told the United Press that although the general condition of his patient remained virtually the same, his pulse was still weakening.

Plymouth, Vt., March 18.—(UP)—Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the president, cannot live more than 48 hours and death probably will come within a comparative few hours, Dr. Albert M. Cram said today following his visit to the Coolidge homestead.

Following his visit this morning, Dr. Cram issued this bulletin:

"Colonel Coolidge has grown weak during the night and his heart is not as good, although it has improved over the condition at 6:30 A. M. But it is more variable, 65 to 140. Temperature about normal. Respiration 45.

(Signed) "Dr. A. M. Cram."

Dr. Cram gave out the bulletin after spending more than an hour and a half at the colonel's cottage. During his stay there the physician had called Major James F. Coupal, the president's personal physician at Washington, and informed him of the latest development in the Colonel's condition.

A snowstorm, which promised to become rather severe, was in progress here early today with indications that it might undo much of the work accomplished during the past few days toward clearing a road in connection with a probable visit of the president.

Because of the change for the worse in the Colonel's condition, neighbors were not permitted to see him this morning. Dr. Cram suggested that his patient be disturbed as little as possible.

It was learned at the Coolidge homestead today that the president had remained in Washington during his father's critical illness at the expressed wish of the Colonel. Colonel Coolidge told Dr. Cram more than a week ago that "Calvin has other things to attend to," and there was no need for the president to come to Plymouth.

Dr. Cram paid a second visit to the Colonel about 11 A. M. Following this he told newspapermen there was virtually no change in his patient's condition.

Plymouth, Vt., March 18.—An indication of a sudden change for the worse in the condition of Colonel John C. Coolidge was seen in the early arrival at the Coolidge home today of Dr. Albert M. Cram.

Dr. Cram arrived about 7:30 A. M. and hurried directly to the Colonel's home without making known the circumstances surrounding the extraordinary visit. The physician's custom has been not to call on his patient until between 10 A. M. and noon.

Reports from the Coolidge household indicated the Colonel had passed a comparatively comfortable night and it was apparent that any marked change in his condition must have been noted by his nurse, Mrs. Mae Johnson, in the early morning hours.

Miss Florence Crilley, the postmistress, visited the Colonel's home late last night. At that time Colonel Coolidge was asleep and, she said, appeared "very quiet and peaceful."

"We are trying to make Colonel Coolidge as comfortable as possible," Dr. Cram told the United Press. "It is only a question of time now. The Colonel cannot live more than 48 hours and it is likely the end will come within 24 hours."

Dr. Cram said Col. Coolidge had recovered as well as could be expected from the heart attack, which he suffered about midnight. The president's father has taken virtually no nourishment for 56 hours and is rapidly growing weaker, according to his physician.

It was learned later that Colonel

EXPLOSION IS THOUGHT OUTCOME OF BOOTLEG WAR

Milwaukee, March 18.—(UP)—An explosion, which is believed to be the outcome of a bootleg war, caused much damage to a house here last night and threw a section of the city into excitement. Louis Schwartz, owner of the house, in which the explosion occurred and in which detectives found several barrels of wine, was questioned but denied all knowledge of the wine. Persons living nearby said the house recently had housed two families.

DRAMATIC CAREER OF RAIL MAN ENDS

CHARLES H. INLEY, FORMER PRESIDENT OF NORTHWEST-
ERN, DIED OF PNEUMONIA

FIRST A COPY BOY, THEN CIVIL ENGINEER AND RAILROAD
PRESIDENT

Chicago, March 18.—(UP)—The dramatic career of Charles H. Inley, former president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, is at an end following his sudden death late Wednesday of pneumonia.

Finley, who retired from the presidency of the railroad last June, died after a two days' illness of pneumonia. No funeral arrangements have been made as Mrs. Finley is en route home from Sarasota, Fla., where she was spending the winter. Beginning as a copy boy on a newspaper, Finley became a civil engineer and from that beginning worked through the successive stages of railroad to become president of the Chicago & Northwestern in 1918. He succeeded R. H. Ashton as president of the road.

Since retiring from the railroad business last year, Finley has been practicing as a civil engineer in Chicago.

Coolidge had suffered a sinking spell, due to a heart attack about midnight. He rallied, however, and it was not felt advisable to summon Dr. Cram until several hours afterward.

The sinking spell left the Colonel considerably weaker, according to the nurse, but otherwise had no serious effect on his condition.

After examining his patient today Dr. Cram called Major James F. Coupal over the Colonel's private White House telephone and informed him of this newest development in the Colonel's condition.

PREES. COOLIDGE TO SEE HIS FATHER

Washington, March 18.—President Coolidge, it is expected at the White House, will leave for Plymouth shortly to see his dying father.

Everything has been placed in readiness for a last minute dash to Vermont and in case of a decision the presidential party can leave Washington in less than hour.

The president had appointments with visitors until 12:30 today and a White House musicale was listed for 4 P. M., though it was suggested that the latter was not a pressing engagement.

Washington, March 18.—President Coolidge will probably leave the capital early this afternoon for the bedside of his father.

The president in this, as in other personal matters, is making every effort to keep the affairs of his family from public gaze.

The president will go by special train. The train probably will skirt New York and then push on northward to White River Junction, Vt., and Woodstock, Vt.

The rest of the journey to the president's birth place will be by automobile. The president will be accompanied by Major Coupal, his private physician, and by Attorney General Sargent, as well as by members of the White House entourage.

He will reach Plymouth in the early morning.

Mrs. Coolidge will also accompany the party.

The exact time for departure of a president is never announced, but the fact that the president is actually departing in the late afternoon was learned reliably.

POPULATION OF U. S. IN 1926 IS 117,135,817

SUS BUREAU OF THE GOVERNMENT

MINNESOTA'S POPULATION ESTI-
MATED AT 2,651,306

By S. P. HOLLINGSWORTH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, March 18.—The population of the United States for 1926 is set at 117,135,817 by the census bureau.

This was the figure computed for July 1, the date the annual estimate is made, the commerce department announced today.

An increase of 1,757,723 is shown over last year and 11,425,197 more than the population in 1920, when the last census was taken.

At the present rate of progression the population of the nation will be 125,000,000 in 1930, when the next census is taken.

The state populations were determined by distributing the figures on the basis of various increases. This was done in all but four states, Mississippi, Nevada and Vermont, which reported decreases, and North Dakota, which furnished its own figure.

The state figures include:

Illinois 7,202,983; Indiana 3,124,499; Iowa, 2,422,915; Michigan, 4,395,551; Minnesota, 2,651,306; Missouri, 3,498,143; Nebraska, 1,384,703; North Dakota, 641,192; Ohio, 6,600,146; South Dakota, 689,346; Wisconsin, 2,834,734.

SNIPER SAYS HE'S MORE SANE THAN LAWYERS

THE DEFENSE GETS AN AWFUL
PUNCH BY ITS CLIENT

HYPOTHETICAL QUESTION OF
4,500 WORDS HURLED AT ALIENIST

Omaha, Neb., March 18.—(UP)—Defense for the phantom sniper who wants to die in the electric chair for the two murders charged against him, continued today but with an awful punch taken from the fortifications by the sniper's personal appearance on the stand.

Two alienists are to take the stand and answer a hypothetical question of 4,500 words, by which it is intended to show that Frank Carter, the silent gunman, was a paranoiac, when he killed Dr. A. D. Searles and William McDevitt. Attorneys hope to save Carter from execution by proving him insane.

But Carter shattered most of the lunacy testimony yesterday.

Taking the stand, he rose and avowed he was as sane as any of the 12 men trying him and indicated he was even more sane than his lawyers. His pet aversion seems to be lawyers and after the insanity plea had been given, he mumbled:

"I never liked lawyers any way."

The sniper continued to draw crowds by his eccentricities and he apparently enjoys being leading man. The court room has been crowded since the first day of the trial and at the dramatic moment, Wednesday, when Carter was pleading for "an end to this mess" and the electric chair, the bailiffs were busy turning 1,000 spectators away.

Omaha, Neb., March 18.—The phantom sniper today presented a new philosophy of murder in his half way attempt to escape the electric chair, when he pointed out that his two victims should have been killed because they were scared.

The sniper—Frank Carter—said he felt no compunction when he shot Dr. A. D. Searles and William McDevitt from ambush.

"Dr. Searles got what was coming to him. I was to blame for killing him and McDevitt but I think they were a little to blame too, because they tried to fight me when I held them up."

The sniper said the only reason he shot the two men was because of their resistance when he attempted to rob them.

VOTE FRIDAY ON HAUGEN BILL

SENATE COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED TO TAKE ACTION
SHORTLY

Washington, March 17.—(UP)—The senate agricultural committee yesterday agreed to vote Friday on the Haugen bill, creating a division of co-operative marketing in the department of agriculture to aid the farmer. The bill was passed by the house January 25.

When the committee convened today Charles W. Holman, secretary of the national board of farm organizations, urged that the naval store industry be excluded from the provisions of the measure on the ground that the production of tree oils and turpentine could be controlled by large corporations.

CHINA AGREES TO COMPLY WITH THE ULTIMATUM

PEIHO RIVER IS TO BE OPENED TO NAVIGATION

NATIONALIST COMMANDERS OF FORTS AGREE TO TERMS

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Peking, March 18.—China has agreed to comply with the foreign powers' ultimatum demanding opening of the Peiho river to navigation, the American legation announced today.

Nationalist commanders of the Taku forts agreed to the terms and the foreign office sent a note to the powers acquiescing in the principle that communication between Peking and the sea must be maintained. The crisis, it was announced at the legations, is past and therefore it is not likely that there will be a display of foreign naval force.

Hundreds of students in Peking today paraded bearing banners which protested "foreign imperialism." The demonstration expressed the students' dissatisfaction with the vigorous foreign moves to open the river and prevent the Taku forts from firing on foreign shipping.

In its note to the powers, the foreign office complained that the ultimatum went beyond the scope of the Boxer protocol, which guarantees free access to the sea from Peking. It was essential, however, the Chinese note said, that there be no recourse to extreme methods.

NEWSPAPER POLLS ON PROHIBITION

CONTINUE TO ATTRACT INCREASING NUMBER OF VOTES

(Copyright, 1926, by United Press)
New York, March 18.—The newspaper polls on prohibition continue to attract an increasing number of votes daily as the largest unofficial referendum ever taken on a public question approaches its close.

With the climax of the balloting set for Saturday, reports to the United Press today showed that within 24 hours 416,591 votes had been cast in the polls being conducted by more than 400 newspapers throughout the country.

The grand totals of three large country-wide polls today showed that those who had voted in favor of modifying or repealing the prohibition laws outnumbered by 5 to 1 those who had expressed sentiments favoring the present situation.

The United Press tabulation at 11 A. M. today showed 67,770 for prohibition and 661,938 for changes.

HANGED FOR MURDER OF HIS 16 YEAR SWEETHEART

By WILLIAM R. HUHN

United Press Staff Correspondent
Manila, P. I., March 18.—Lieutenant John S. Thompson, West Point graduate of 1923 and beau brummel of the army colony, was hanged at 5:24 a. m. today in an abandoned barn-like structure back of the quartermaster supply house at Fort McKinley.

The old building in the half light of dawn provided a weird setting for the final act of a tragedy that began a few minutes after midnight on April 6, 1925, when Thompson fired five bullets into the breast of 16 year old Audrey Burleigh, stepdaughter of Captain Hamilton P. Calmes and favorite of the army social set.

Thompson, the son of Rev. Milton Thompson, of Astoria, N. Y., was in love with Audrey. He said he shot her because she would not marry him. Her last words, Thompson told the court, which condemned him, were: "I love you."

LEAGUE NATIONS COUNCIL TAKES UP U. S. STATUS

PREPARES TO EXAMINE U. S.
SENATE'S RESERVA-TIONS

AS TO PARTICIPATING IN PER-MANENT INTERNATIONAL COURT

Geneva, March 18.—(UP)—The League of Nations council is preparing today to examine the United States senate's reservations to America participating in the permanent international court of justice at the Hague.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, moved that the reservations be taken up this afternoon. League members are convinced that Sir Austen would not have asked the council to consider the reservations unless the British ambassador in Washington, Sir Esme Howard, had assured him that the state department would not object.

According to the League secretariat the council this afternoon probably will refer the American reservations to a commission of international jurists who would ascertain whether they could be accepted without modification of the court's statutes. Only to the senate's aversion to the court's advisory opinions, the council hopes to be able to reach a common decision without asking the court's opinion.

Sir Austen announced in the council that the secretariat had communicated to all the court members notice of the American reservations, but that it was both courteous to the United States and convenient for the council to consider the reservations. Therefore he had moved that the matter be put on the agenda.

The council decided to increase the preliminary commission by adding four industrial and transport experts, one each from the United States, Germany, Japan and Soviet Russia.

Thus preparations were made for two important conferences at Geneva this year at which the United States would play a major role. The United States already has agreed to participate in the preliminary disarmament conference when the meeting was postponed indefinitely from the first date, February 15, following Franco-British failure to agree on the scope of the conference.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, said it would be virtually impossible to obtain the agreement of all signatories to the court regarding the reservations by an exchange of notes. An international conference, he said, was imperative.

The conference would draft an annex embodying the American reservations which then would be attached to the original court protocol.

Sir Austen suggested the reservations might not be all adopted when he said the conference would draft an agreement embodying the reservations as far as possible.

The council then adjourned to meet in June.

A committee to draft projects for security and arbitrary arbitrations was appointed.

Geneva, March 18.—The League of Nations council today decided to invite the United States and the nations adhering to the permanent court of international justice to meet in conference at Geneva, September 1, for the purpose of drafting an agreement which would permit acceptance of the United States senate's reservations relative to American adherence to the court.

The council also convoked the HEART ATTACK PROVED FATAL AT 10 A. M. TODAY

CAME TO NISSWA TUESDAY FOR FIRST TIME THIS SEASON

WELL KNOWN HERE, DIRECTOR
FIRST NATIONAL BANK
MANY YEARS

Leon E. Lum, well known to many Brainerd people and former resident of this city, passed away this morning at 10:10 o'clock, death coming as a result of a heart stroke which came upon him at 4 a. m. today.

Mr. Lum's death came with unexpected suddenness, and chilled the hearts of his countless friends and acquaintances here. Word of his death passed around the city rapidly and expressions such as this were heard, "Why, I thought he would go on living forever."

Known to his friends as a very picture of health, always taking the best of care of his physical well-being, Mr. Lum has never given any indication of being in ill health. He was 68 years old at the time of his death and unmarried.

He came to Brainerd from Duluth on Tuesday and drove from here to Nisswa. Early this morning he called his housekeeper, Mrs. Eades, on the phone, informing her that he was not feeling well, and asking her to send for a doctor. Word was finally got to Dr. R. A. Beise but he was in the midst of an operation, and before he could get into his car to make the trip, another message came telling of his death.

A brother, Dr. Clarence Lum was to arrive this afternoon from Duluth, and will make arrangements for the funeral. Another brother, Bert, lives in California, and his mother and sister also live there, in Whittier, Calif. Mr. Lum returned about a month ago from California, after having made his customary yearly visit with his relatives there.

Mr. Lum was an early resident of Brainerd, coming here in 1881 as a young lawyer. In 1882, when an act of the legislature incorporated the city of Brainerd, following six years of township government, Mr. Lum was elected city attorney, under Mayor B. F. Hartley.

He was later county attorney for Crow Wing county, and in 1888 served a term in the state legislature as representative from this district.

He was one of the earliest stockholders of the First National bank in this city, becoming a stockholder in Aug. 1882, and in Jan. 1883 he became a director of the bank and has been a director ever since. He has lived at Duluth since moving from Brainerd about 25 years ago.

It was the custom of Mr. Lum to go to California every winter just before Christmas, spend the holidays there with his mother, and return to Minnesota during February. About the middle of March he usually came to Nisswa, and from that time on, he would spend alternately two weeks at Nisswa and one week at Duluth throughout the summer until November.

About fourteen years ago, Mr. Lum purchased his summer home at Nisswa and there he would entertain his many friends from Brainerd and elsewhere. Several from here were planning to drive to his place for dinner this evening.

One of Mr. Lum's latest public acts was to offer $500 reward for the capture of the murderers of two St. Paul policemen. The Dispatch received a card from him just the other day regarding the early railway engines through this region.

A monument to Mr. Lum in this city is Lum Park, the site of which was donated to this city a number of years ago by Mr. Lum, and last year he added about forty acres more adjoining, for an increased use of the park.

Among the friends of the deceased who drove to the Lum summer home at Nisswa immediately after word of his death was received here, were Walter F. Wieland, Dr. R. A. Beise, E. A. Farrar and Henry I. Cohen.

League of Nations preliminary disarmament conference to meet in Geneva May 17.

Geneva, March 18.—The League of Nations council today appointed a commission to consider reorganization of the council and the creation and distribution of new council seats.

ATTENDS D. A. R. ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. Ethel Parker Campbell Gives Interesting Account of Sub-

MET AT SAINT PAUL HOTEL

State Chairman Mrs. Duxbury Makes Allusion to Enthusiasm Shown by Brainerd Chapter

Mrs. Ethel Parker Campbell, vice regent and Sibley house representative, made the following report to the members of the local, Samuel Huntington chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution:

The thirty-first annual conference of the D. A. R. was held at the St. Paul hotel, St. Paul, on Thursday, February 25th.

Meeting of the council came at 9:30 and only lasted for a short time, allowing our State Regent, Mrs. Jameson's expenses to Washington in April for the national meeting.

There came the bugle call by Jack P. Wentling of scout troop No. 17, St. Paul.

We all gathered in the Palm room and at 10 o'clock Mrs. Elliott played the "National Emblem" processional march and all turned to the center aisle to see all we could of this procession. First came the flag bearer and the banner bearer, two young girls dressed in colonial costume and all the pages, about sixteen in number, all dressed in colonial costumes and the gray hair wigs. There were about the same number dressed in all white, acting as ushers. They joined a line on each side and all the state officers marched through. Over head, hanging high, was a very large American flag and as our State Regent Mrs. Jameson, marched under it was unfurled and there it hung during the entire meeting.

The last two pages came through first and when they came to the Regent and state officers they made a courtesy and passed on to the sides where they formed a line on either side of the room. I can never tell you of the thrills and inspirations one gets as you watch this procession.

The meeting was called to order by our state regent. Our state chaplain led in prayer. We all sang two verses of America, and then gave the salute to the flag led by Mrs. W. I. Gray, state chairman. She told us just how we should say it and I was so proud to find our chapter was doing it just that way.

Address of welcome was given by Mayor Nelson of St. Paul. He gave much praise to the ladies of the D. A. R. in the work they were doing. He asked the ladies to assist in making our votes to be right votes so our government would be right, that we might have the right kind of people at the head of our state and our nation. The response to the mayor's welcome was given by Mrs. Loyhed of Faribault in a very charming manner and full of vim and enthusiasm.

Miss Ellen Claire Donovan sang "Minnesota" a state song.

Next followed the roll call of chapters and as our chapters were called, we went forward and received our voting badge, which was a red, white and blue ribbon bow on a pin. The voting body all sat in front, to the right of the regent.

The state officers gave their reports. Our state regent reports she visited 19 chapters before the September meeting and 13 after. She asked every Daughter to display a flag on all holidays and if she did not have one, to please get one right away.

State registrar reported we now had 2,588 members and had jumped up in rank to 17th from 31st. She also asked if we were to have year books she would suggest we follow the Massachusetts year book plan, this book to have all state officers, chapters, state chairmen and to be printed after election of all chapter officers. Our year book now has all the members of the state, which seems to be the one thing which takes so much of the book and makes them cost so much.

The report of the new auditorium by the State Chairman Mrs. Duxbury, which every one was waiting so patiently for was given. The $1,500 for the Minnesota box, for which we all gave $1.00 per capita, was sent to Washington that night. $250.00 had been sent to Washington last fall to obtain the Minnesota box and taken from the D. A. R. funds, so it was voted to pay back as the funds came in from the chapters the $250.00 to the state fund again. Only three chapters had not been heard from. The $1500 was raised in just five months time. The name suggested by Minnesota for the new building is Constitution hall.

Twenty-three chairs have been purchased at $150 each and out of this number, 10 have already been paid for. The Nathan Hale chapter of St. Paul have taken two chairs and both paid for.

Two chapters had special mention and I am very proud to say our Samuel Huntington chapter of Brainerd was one. She spoke of our very capable Regent Mrs. Bronson, the great interest and enthusiasm she had shown in all the work undertaken by our Daughters. She said this Brainerd chapter, besides paying its quota in full for the box, had also pledged themselves for a chair.

In paying for our chair, the state chairman of the auditorium fund, suggested we send in any money as fast as we had earned it.

At the luncheon I was very fortunate in sitting next to our new auditorium chairman and in our rapid talk about the work, she asked how we were raising our funds, and was glad of any suggestions from our chapter so she could pass it along to other chapters. She was and is a very, very enthusiastic member of the new auditorium.

After this most interesting report, for which there was great applause, came the election of the nominating committee to serve two years. I was appointed one of three tellers and with a voting body of about 225 I did not get the remainder of the morning session.

Election for national vice-president general from Minnesota, also came at this time and Mrs. Loyhed was the only candidate and was elected.

We now adjourned to have luncheon which though hastily eaten was enjoyed. We assembled again in an hour.

The first on the program for the afternoon was a group of songs sung by a group of ladies of which Miss Carolyn Punderson was one. They sang beautifully and responded by an encore.

The address was given by E. H. Davidson. The topic of his address was "Fitness in Office Deemed U. S. Need." He stated that the unhealthy effect of socialism on government is the biggest outstanding problem confronting Europe today and he is confident that if such a situation becomes sufficiently prevalent in this country, it will prove one of its greatest dangers because it runs absolutely counter to the principles on which the government is founded, the observance of which has made marvelous prosperity and success possible.

Then followed the meeting of the Sibley House association. A committee produced plans for the making of a tea house out of what was known as the Fea property. There was much discussion as it would take about $5,000.00 and the one question was how to get water. After discussion pro and con, it was suggested this committee be instructed to get water by well or by piping from Sibley House, and then a special meeting be called to discuss further the details and plans for the tea house. The voting body of the Sibley House was a much smaller body of voters than of the conference. The voters of the Sibley House could only be the elected representatives from each chapter.

The hour was now 5:30 and as I had to take the 6 o'clock train home, I was very sorry to have to leave.

I want my chapter to know I appreciate and greatly enjoy every meeting I am able to attend and hope you may all be able to do so very soon.

Respectfully submitted,
ETHEL PARKER CAMPBELL,
Vice-Regent and Sibley House Representative.

KEEPING A STRING ON THE HOME DOLLAR

THE Merchants Trade Committee of the Civic & Commerce Association of Bemidji is running a series of advertisements in the Bemidji Daily Pioneer calling attention to the necessity and benefit of trading at home. In a recent statement headed "You Keep a String on Every Dollar You Spend at Home," these arguments were advanced, and they are all sound ones:

"Whether you spend the dollar with the grocer, the clothier, the doctor—anywhere in town—it's true just the same. For everyone of these pays taxes, contributes to civic improvement which you also enjoy.

"Plus this, eventually the home dollar comes back to you, whether it be for merchandise or in the form of wages. The money that remains here at home helps everybody here. The money that is sent away handicaps everybody here. This seems like a strong statement, yet is plain fact if you will analyze it. Keep a string on your dollar, spend it at home."

You will notice that these arguments are set forth in a paid advertisement carried in the Bemidji paper, showing that the Civic & Commerce Association in that town appreciates the constant boosting of its home town paper and reciprocates by running a series of paid advertisements. The size of the advertisement carried in the daily of March 16 was a 10 inch 3 column ad, total of 30 inches.

OUR FOREIGN POLICIES ENUNCIATED

Now that there is talk that Frank B. Kellogg may give up the portfolio of Secretary of State, and that Ambassador Houghton may be his successor, one wonders if there will be any changes in our foreign policy.

Secretary Kellogg in his New York speech of December 14, spoke of the traditional policy of America and that is summed up briefly in the point that the United States will do everything in its power to help foreign nations help themselves, but it will not take part in the political affairs of those nations.

"We will not under any circumstances commit ourselves to the European system of alliances and counter-alliances to maintain the balance of power in Europe. Europe herself is making a sincere effort to free herself of the old balance of power system by means of the Locarno treaties. The Locarno conference dealt with purely European political questions; there was no reason to invite the United States to attend. The Locarno conference was an outstanding accomplishment, and no people were more gratified at its splendid results than the American people."

The war debt settlements made have not been harsh. Nobody has been hurried to make a settlement. "It is for the benefit of the foreign governments themselves to make these settlements," said Secretary Kellogg.

ICE CREAM AND HEALTH

ICE cream has long been a recognized dessert and delicacy. Its value as a food for health-building is of more recent realization, but just as sure to become known.

"Chicago's Health," a weekly bulletin of the Chicago department of health, edited by Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, commissioner of health of the city, used an entire issue emphasizing the food value of ice cream and its importance to the health of both adults and children.

Ice cream, containing as it does all the food elements and vitamins or growth promoting principals of milk, is really a health food served in a delicious form.

Once regarded by athletes as injurious to their training, ice cream now occupies a foremost rank as a health food for athletes. It is a part of the daily diet of the Chicago White Sox and other big time teams. The famous Four Horsemen of the championship Notre Dame team of 1924 had it on their training table daily. Tommy Gibbons, known as the cleanest living professional boxer ever to enter a roped arena, is a constant user of this food. Walter Johnson, "Big Train" of the Washington Senators, American league champs, eats a quart or two daily.

This food is a health builder which combines sunshine and food, bringing the invigorating elements of milk products into a form highly enjoyed by children.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION LOGIC

WHAT we do not know about freight rates would be a whole lot, but from our limited information we fail to see the logic of the Interstate Commerce Commission in refusing the western railroads the privilege of reducing rates on 47 commodities, from the west. The purpose of the roads was to compete with the ocean rates via Panama canal, from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

The roads wanted a through rate, which would give them business, and much quicker service to the people than by the long water haul. The roads claim on this through business they could make some profit, and thus avoid hauling so many empty cars over their lines, where the business is much heavier, one way than it is the other. It is a peculiar thing for the government to refuse roads the right to lower rates.—St. Cloud Daily Journal-Press.

MOTORISTS failing to display 1926 license tags by the first day of April will be subject to arrest and a heavy fine. A penalty of 25c a day attaches to the original amount of the license after February 15th and remains in force for twenty days, when the penalty becomes $2 a month.

Three Rows From the Front

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

THE great singer, bowing graciously to the applause inspired by his opening selection, noticed that the girl was there again, three rows from the front and in the center.

He had first seen her in Oakland, then in Denver, and had continued to find her at each recital in the various cities he visited on his coast-to-coast tour. Always she sat, as now, rapt, adoring, and, at the close of each song, clapping with her little hands.

He seized his accompanist, young Pierre Diderot, and led him forward, at which the little hands clapped harder than ever at the great singer's generosity in sharing the plaudits of the audience.

Unfortunately for his peace of mind, the girl was getting to be a necessity to the man. He had grown to look for her first of all, and if by any chance she was late his heart sank. And then when she did come in, her mauve evening cape over her slender arm, he revived again like a drooping plant after a shower, and was willing even to sing the "Volga Boat Song" as an encore.

To his audience Orloff Stiechensky was the great master, superb and supreme. To his manager, he was a refractory child who, if properly controlled and kept clear of entangling alliances with women who made fools of themselves over him, would continue to bring in with his golden voice vast sums of money at each performance.

Therefore, when, during the brief intermission, Orloff remarked that he was sending a note by an usher asking a certain charming lady to be shown into his presence, the manager frowned. But he very well knew that it was poor business to cross Orloff in the middle of a recital. He was quite capable of refusing to appear at all again that evening.

Yet something must be done. "Very well," he said to Orloff resignedly. "Give me your note and I give you my word I will deliver it at once. There, they are still clapping you. You must go on again."

It was after his rendering of an old Polish folk song that Orloff saw an usher approach the occupant of the center seat three rows from the front and after that the girl sat for a long time with her head bowed. When she finally raised it he could see that her eyes were shining.

After the last encore Orloff hurried from the stage to clasp the slender hand of a dark-haired girl and gaze into a pair of steady eyes.

"I am flattered by your regular attendance at my recitals," he said, speaking slowly, for his English was never at its best during emotional moments. "You are my inspiration."

The girl raised fathomless eyes to his. "Thank you," she said quietly. "You are to me the greatest of masters. But it is your pianist that I pursue, Pierre. We are to be married soon, but I follow to keep my eyes on him. These young artists are like wax in the hands of the flattering women. I have the time and the money, so I spend them both to keep him safe for me. Oh, I see him hardly at all. Once in a while a little dinner or a few words on the train—he shrugs her shoulders.

Orloff's manager, carefully within earshot, grinned. "Bravo—bravo!" he said to himself. "The girl is a clever little actress. My suggestion and check, sent along with his note, were an inspiration. If only Pierre does not spoil it by bursting in and swearing he never saw the girl! How devilishly disagreeable Orloff looks with that frown on his forehead!"

Yes, Orloff looked for all the world like a very large little boy who sees a stick of candy about to be taken away from him. He had dropped the slender hand and was already sick of the interview.

"Pierre—Pierre!" she shouted suddenly, to the consternation of his manager.

"No—no, Stiechensky. Pierre has gone ahead to attend to your luggage."

"What's that, monsieur?" Pierre rushed in hurriedly. "Did you wish—Nom de dieu, is it you whom I see—petite Eugenie? Pourquoi?"

"Ah, Pierre," the girl rushed into his arms. "The master sent for me and the other one—he wrote me this note and"—she held out a check and waved it in the direction of the manager, whom the rapid turns of his wheel of fortune had made speechless—"and I can't keep it because all I have said was the truth!"

"Oh," said the manager grandly. "Consider, my children, that it is my wedding present to you both."

Then: "Come, Stiechensky," he pleaded soothingly, "or you will miss your train and break the hearts of the two thousand people that await you."

Outside in the darkness he mopped his brow. It had the earmarks of a narrow escape.

Changed His Mind

The manager of a large warehouse in Glasgow who was much disliked, received an offer from an English firm and had all but decided to give up his Glasgow job. His fellow employees thereupon collected a purse of money and presented it to him as a thank offering on the occasion of his departure. "Weel, weel," said Scottie as he took the purse. "I never thought ye liket me sae weel, but noo that I see ye're sae vexed at me gaun' awa', I think I'll no gang, but just bide whaur I am."—Montreal Witness.

Cupid and the Kitten

By SDNEY BLAIR

(Copyright.)

JANET sat down at Miss Lane's desk, feeling that something very exciting certainly was going to happen. She had always rather envied Miss Lane the big mahogany desk, with its bowl of flowers and its row of the newest books. Sometimes she wondered if she would ever be in charge of that branch of the circulating library, where so many interesting people came to take out new books and chat for a moment with Miss Lane.

Janet summoned up courage sometimes to talk with some of them, to suggest a new detective story for old Mr. Hallett, or one of the solid English novels for Mrs. Jewett. But as a rule she quietly accepted the books people were returning, marked them on the proper cards, and stamped and marked the books that were being taken out, without saying anything.

Today was to be different, however. Miss Lane wasn't coming in, and she'd have to do everything herself.

Perhaps—perhaps Mr. Atwood would come in—Stanley Atwood. He was an old friend of Miss Lane's, a mining engineer, and had been to the ends of the earth. He hated having to stay in the city, and as soon as he had finished the work that kept him there he'd go away again, to stay for a year or more.

The first half of the morning passed uninterestingly enough. A few people came in, but none of them added to Janet's feeling that something exciting was going to happen. Then, as she was arranging a pile of children's books on one of the tables, a woman came hurrying in, carrying a black kitten.

"Just look at this," she cried. "This darling little cat was walking along the street, meowing so piteously—a boy threw a stone at it just as I passed—and something must be done about it."

"Oh, it is pretty," said Janet as she took the kitten. It snuggled against her and began to purr.

"It's beautiful!" said the woman emphatically. "And if I didn't live with my sister-in-law I'd take it home with me, but she hates cats."

Old Mr. Hallett came in just then, and he, too, agreed that it was a beautiful cat and ought to have a home.

"I'll tell you," he said at last. "I've got just the thing. I'll telephone my sister, who lives at Mountbanks, about ten miles from here, and have her come in and get it. She has two children—"

"Children are too cruel! I won't have this cat in a home where there are children!" interrupted the woman who had discovered the cat. "They tease animals so."

"My niece wouldn't dream of doing that—they're Girl Scouts," Mr. Hallett told her angrily. They were deep in bitter argument when Janet realized that Mr. Atwood had come in and was standing listening with some amusement.

"What's the matter?" he asked her, quite as if they had been old friends. She explained, and he offered to go to his hotel a few doors away and get some milk for the cat.

The woman who had brought the cat in finally departed, and Mr. Hallett, having telephoned to his sister, departed also, saying that he would return at two o'clock. Introduce the cat and his sister, and take both away.

Atwood sat down on the edge of a table and went on talking with Janet, not just about books, but about himself and then about her, although she hardly realized the turn the conversation had taken until she had told him many things—about how she was living alone in the city, and was going to save her money so that some day she could travel, and finally—though she did not realize that—how lonely she was.

Suddenly a young girl rushed into the room.

"You steal my cat!" she cried, rushing up to Janet. "You steal my cat, my Pedro. He walk in the street for the air—you steal him!"

Janet stepped back hastily; it looked as if the excited owner of Pedro would claw her eyes out.

"But I didn't!"

"You steal my cat!" Explanations were no good at all.

Janet was almost in tears when Stanley Atwood came to the rescue. Pedro's owner listened to him more readily than to Janet, even smiled coyly at him as he talked.

Pedro and his rightful owner departed at last, and Stanley turned eagerly to Janet.

"You've got to have luncheon with me after that," he told her. "Take our mutual friendship for Miss Lane as introduction and chaperone, and some along!"

And Janet went.

It was two months later, after many luncheons and dinners and picnics, that he gave her another order.

"You've got to marry me and come along to China with me—I can't go without you," he said.

And Janet went.

Oh, Romeo!

He was a very shy young man, and although Ermytrude had presented him with innumerable opportunities for declaring his love in practical fashion, he could never summon up sufficient courage to take advantage of them.

They were sitting as usual one evening—she on the sofa, he on a chair, with the usual half-hour intervals between remarks, when the climax was reached.

"Isn't it funny," she said, "that the length of a man's arm is the same as the circumference of a girl's waist?"

"Is that so?" said he, mildly interested. "What do you say if we get a piece of string and see if it's right?"

For Head Colds

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to snuff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

INTER-CLASS GAMES NOW ON AT HIGH SCHOOL

FIRST TEAM PLAYERS COACH
CLASS TEAMS THIS WEEK

GIRLS' GAMES NEXT WEEK.
GRADE SCHOOLS PLAY
LATER

The Freshmen will meet the Sophomores tonight in the first of the inter-class games being played at the high school, and the Juniors and Seniors will play immediately following. The tournament style of schedule is being used this year instead of the percentage system, with the winners playing tomorrow night for the championship, and the losers playing in a consolation game.

The teams have been practicing for a week, with members of the first team as coaches. Lowe is coach of the Freshmen, Lawrence has the Sophomores, Whitlock is sending the Juniors through their paces, and Tribur is ironing out the kinks in the Seniors' team play. Much interest is being shown in all the teams, with about 15 or 20 men out for each team. The coaches are in absolute charge, picking the members of the teams and handling the entire work of the team. Marshall will referee the games.

Next week the girls' class teams will play their games, the championship to be decided on a percentage basis. Each team will meet each other team once.

Immediately after vacation, which starts next Friday, the grade schools will hold the annual play-off for the grade school championship. The games will be divided into two sections. The Lincoln, Whittier, Lowell and Harrison schools comprise one section, with the Mixed Grade and Eighth grade another. The winner of each section will meet in the finals for the championship.

Marshall is coaching the Lowell, Orth the Whittier, Fitzharris the Lincoln, and Whitlock the Harrison. In the first section, with Avery handling the Mixed Grade and Fitzharris the 8th grade in the other division.

402 CHILDREN INSPECTED

County Nurse's Report Shows Many Visits Made, Talks Given, And Defects Corrected

The report of the county nurse, Miss Thora Ingebritson, for the month of February, shows a variety of work accomplished during the month. A number of talks were given, calls made to schools, hospitals, and homes, and many children inspected individually and in groups.

Total number of visits to homes—52.

Total number of visits—83. Of this number there were nine people given nursing care. There were forty-eight instruction and demonstration calls to homes of tubercular patients, crippled children, prenatal mothers, pre-school children, babies and follow-up visits to school children.

There were five investigation calls including scarlet fever and chicken pox, and twenty-one miscellaneous calls to hospitals, town boards, doctors, etc.

One tuberculosis clinic was held with an attendance of fifteen.

Total visits to school rooms—21. This means there were twenty-one visits made to school rooms. If a school has two rooms, the report shows two visits instead of one visit to the school.

There were four hundred and two children inspected, one hundred eighty-eight inspected individually and two hundred fourteen in class room inspection. There were one hundred fifty-seven pupils defective and forty-three with defects corrected. Three children were excluded because of symptoms of chicken pox. Twelve health talks were given. There were eight special communicable disease visits made to schools.

Supplies were given to a needy maternity case by the Mother's club and Child Interest club of Crosby. A sterile maternity package was furnished by the Trommald Mother's club.

One child was returned to her home from the state hospital for crippled children.

SMART HANDLING IS PRIME REQUISITE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

Smart handling, it is an accepted theory of boxing, is a necessity to get any place as a fighter or a business man. Every great champion that can be named had a great manager and some of the best prospects failed because they were badly handled.

Jack Dempsey might have become the world's heavyweight champion under a manager other than Jack Kearns or without a manager but he would not have reached the top so quickly and he would not have been able to get the huge purses that he did.

Luis Angel Firpo, the South American giant, could have been a heavyweight champion if he had trusted himself to a smart American manager. He preferred to handle his own affairs and completely ruined his career. He wouldn't even trust a good American second and if he had been backed by some one in his corner who knew anything at all about the game he might have taken the title away from Jack Dempsey.

Dave Shade, through the shrewd management of Leo P. Flynn, became one of the richest and highest rated boxers in the game. Flynn played to its last nickel's worth the refusal of Mickey Walker to accept Shade's challenge.

"We made more money," Flynn has said several times, "builing Shade as the fighter Walker feared than we would have made as the champion. With no title to protect we could fight whenever and wherever we wanted to without any worry and the purses in the long run were just as good."

Flynn was smart enough to see the defects in the style of Jimmy Slattery and to figure out how to beat him. Slattery, it will be recalled was picked by critics as a sure heavyweight champion of the world and he was dubbed a second Corbett.

"My fellow can lick him sure and I'm going to make the match," Flynn said. The match was made and Shade knocked Slattery out.

Shade failed to wrest the title from Walker but the decision was so close that he lost very little prestige.

The case of Tommy Milligan, the European champion, was just the opposite. Milligan had fought himself up to a position where the New York Boxing commission recognized him as the first ranking challenger and ordered Walker to accept him as his next opponent.

Milligan was then matched with George Levine in a small Brooklyn club. His friends told him that it was a bad match, that Levine was not a sap and that there was nothing to gain and everything to lose in it.

The match was made anyway and Milligan was soundly beaten and for it he lost his priority in the class and received $1,300. He might have gotten $12,500 for his end against Walker as the match would have drawn about $100,000 in Tex Rickard's Garden.

Billy Gibson was responsible for Benny Leonard's success. Jimmy Bronson developed Jack Zivic into one of the best cards in the game. Eddie Kane is bringing Sammy Mandell along to the lightweight title.

Considering others too numerous to mention, it might be concluded that a manager can't do anything unless his fighter is there but he can do an awful lot of helping.

NORTH LONG LAKE NEWS

An important meeting of the Daughters of the Soil will be held next Saturday at the home of the Misses Agnes and Amanda Olson. The girls are urged to be on time, if possible, as there is much to be talked over.

Mrs. Ackerson and Mrs. Barr attended the meeting for the clothing project leaders in Brainerd Monday. They decided that it was advisable to postpone our local meeting one week, so we will meet Thursday, March 25. The unit with Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Thienes as leaders will meet the same day.

Those who attended the dairy meeting at the town hall last Friday were well repaid for going. It did seem a shame that more people in the neighborhood were unable to attend the meeting as Mr. Wilson came to Brainerd from the University for this particular meeting. However, it is too late to mend that. Perhaps, if each of the eighteen who attended will pass on what they learned to at least one more person the benefit can be enjoyed by a greater number.

The crows are getting impatient for corn planting time. By the way have you tested your seed corn? The report out now is that good seed is scarce.

It will not be long before the early spring flowers will be blooming. Now is the time to spread the propaganda for protecting them. Some of us remember when our fields and woods were a riot of color all through the warm seasons. Ruthless picking has destroyed much of the beauty we used to enjoy. Some wild flowers are totally destroyed by picking them. Get informed and use your influence to protect the beauty of North Long Lake.

At the meeting of the Bible class next Sunday there will be several things of interest aside from the regular lesson. If you don't come, we know you will be sorry afterwards.

There was no school last Friday as Miss Huntley went to Duluth for the week end.

Miss Huntley and her committee are working on the program for the next get-together.

Mrs. Hilding Larson has gone to Duluth where she will join her husband on the farm they have recently purchased.

Will Thompson represented North Long Lake in the Old Fiddlers contest in Brainerd.

Charlie Hall of Lake Park was calling on relatives in the neighborhood this week.

ATHLETIC PARK STAND TO GET ROOF SOON

N. P. BASEBALL CLUB ELECTS ITS 1926 OFFICERS

J. P. ANDERSON GIVES PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF PARK

ED. WHITING RE-ELECTED MANAGER, PETERSON NAMED CAPTAIN

The N. P. baseball club had its first meeting of the season at the Y. M. C. A. last evening and named officers for the year.

Ed. Whiting was elected manager of the team for the season of 1926, J. P. Anderson treasurer, John Vanni secretary, and Lester Peterson captain. All were re-elections.

Mr. Anderson spoke regarding plans for the baseball park this year, mentioning fencing of the park, putting of a roof on the stand, draining of grounds, and planting of grass. He stated that there is a nice surplus in the treasury of the club since last year.

The aim of the club this year will be to provide a high class brand of baseball, and negotiations are already under way to secure several classy players. The management is in touch with a couple of fine pitchers, and will aim to put a winning team in the field. The team, as far as possible, will include the best players in Brainerd and will represent the entire city.

Sport Notes

The Pacific Coast Baseball league championship will start April 6.

In his latest photos Babe Ruth looks all over like Charley Hickman used to in the legs.

Harry Courtney, veteran left-handed pitcher, has been given a contract by the Brooklyn Robins.

Powderhall track in Edinburgh, Scotland, is generally credited with being the fastest course in the world.

Springfield of the Western association has signed Catcher Eddie Banks, who was with Hutchinson of the same league in 1923.

Marvin (Bunny) Lent, semi-pro outfielder of Providence, R. I., has signed a contract with the Tulsa club of the Western league.

President Toole of the International league, has purchased the release of Umpire Walter Papke from the Mississippi Valley league.

The Denver club of the Western league has signed Judy Cline, young Denver infielder and outfielder. Cline was given a tryout by Des Moines last spring.

Cleveland has signed Walter Durant, a semi-pro catcher, from Newark, Ohio. It is understood he will be sent to the Paris club of the Eastern Texas league.

James J. Corbett, the ex-heavyweight champion, originated the modern trick of bounding off the ropes, so often used by some of the present-day boxers.

Lee Fohl's "big three" combination is in line in Boston. It seems rather sudden, this "big three" business, but count 'em yourself—Howard Ehmke, Fred Wingfield and Charley Ruffing.

National league rivals say Pittsburgh must strengthen back of the plate. One high-class catcher, they admit, would make the Pirates mighty dangerous for about three years more.

The croquet championship of England will be held this year on June 28-July 10 at the Roehampton club. The inter-county championship is scheduled to begin at Hurlingham on May 24.

Bill Killefer should prove mighty helpful for Rogers Hornsby as his assistant at St. Louis. With no managerial worries he should greatly improve the Cardinals' pitching as coach.

The winning spirit has caused Jimmy Austin of the St. Louis Browns to stick in the majors for six years after being through as a player. George Sisler says Austin will again be with his club.

Ty Cobb says he looks for Lou Gehrig, hard-hitting rookie of the Yankees, to steal Babe Ruth's home-run thunder within two seasons. Ruth himself has already named Gehrig "Buster" because of his slugging ability.

Along with the increasing popularity of motoring, pedestrianism is progressing by leaps and bounds, observes the Arkansas Gazette.

ATHLETICS MAY HAVE A CINCH ON THE PENNANT

KID GLEASON, VETERAN TRAINER, SAYS CONFIDENTLY, "WE'RE IN"

ONLY ONE ROOKIE IN CAMP AT FORT MYERS, FLA.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

For Myers, Fla., March 18.—Sitting on the corner of the bench in the Athletics' training camp, his knees crossed and his hands holding the inevitable score card, Connie Mack, the veteran Philadelphia pilot, looked up with a wide smile when the question was put to him: "What is your club going to do this year?" "Ask the Kid over there," he answered.

Kid Gleason, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, who came out of retirement to coach the Athletics with Mack, looked over from the other end of the bench, and with a smile, just as wide, delivered "We're in," and he talked as if he did not mean maybe.

Neither Mack nor Gleason had any whys in support. "Just look 'em over," he said. "Athletics are a fine looking team and one that looks like a rival of equal rating for the champion Washington Senators and the promising St. Louis Browns."

There was not much work for Mack to do this spring beyond reaching a decision on what good players he would have to leave out of the regular line-up. There was really only one rookie in camp and he was the veteran Joe Pate from Fort Worth.

The only worry that has bothered Mack is about Joe Hauser, his star first baseman, who was out of the game all last season with a fractured knee. It may be that he will have to use Poole again at first.

Chick Galloway is a sure shot for shortstop, but two players are fighting it out for the other infield positions.

Bill Wambgsann, the veteran Cleveland star of the 1920 world's series, and Max Bishop are battling for second base. The same holds good for third base, where Jimmy Dykes and Sammy Hale are fighting for the regular job.

Lamar, Simmons, Miller and French are cinches for the outfield and Mack is satisfied with them.

The real star of the team, who is credited with putting the club in the running last year, looks better than ever this year. He is Mickey Cochrane, the best catcher in the major leagues and the biggest star within years. Helping Cochrane will be Cy Perkins, a regular catcher on any club, but he will not have to do much helping. There are a raft of fine pitchers on the club, Groves, Rommel, Harris, Helmach, Walberg and Baumgartner. If the first four named work as well as they have been going in training camp, the Athletics are almost a cinch as a pennant winner.

Baggenbaggage Wins

New Orleans—Victory for the Idle Hour farm's Baggenbaggage in yesterday's Louisiana derby, feature racing event at Jefferson park, established the colt as one of the favorites in the Kentucky derby, two months hence. Pompey and Canter still are the outstanding public choices for the American turf classic at Churchill Downs, but the winter book odds of 10 to 1 on Baggenbaggage no doubt will be lowered today.

Jim Rice May go to Germany

New York—Jim Rice, former Columbia crew coach, may go to Germany to coach crews for the 90th annual regatta of the Hamburg rowing club this summer.

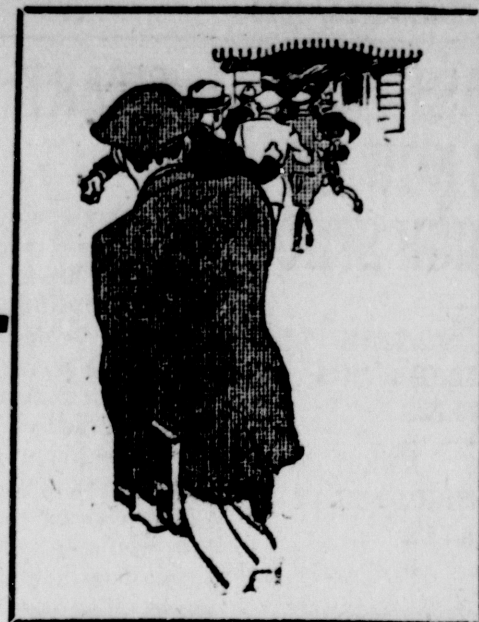

Grenna Defeated Mondt

Chicago—Raffaello Grenna, Italian wrestler, defeated Joe Mondt in straight falls.

Bubbles Indicate Leak

Air bubbles seen in the radiator solution indicate some sort of cylinder head gasket leak. The bubbles are the result of compression leaking out around the head and getting into the cooling system. This air, being under pressure, naturally finds its way to the surface of the water in the radiator.

Crow Wing County Receives Trunk
Route Gains Costing More Than Auto-Gas Taxes

HAS 99.3 MILES HIGHWAY

Total Taxes Paid Are $377,404 Compared to $942,001 Outlay by
State in County

Crow Wing county is benefitting by necessary betterments on its most used highways which cost $564,597 more than its total of motor vehicle and gasoline taxes paid toward the state highway program under the Babcock plan.

The summary below as taken from official records and given in a highway bulletin this week, shows how this county is faring under the state plan. The highway department is required by law to show disbursements by counties and trunk routes for each year and the summary was given out upon completion of the 1925 tabulations. The figures are checked by the state public examiner. The summary gives more detailed information than the recent map picturing the disbursements and comparative flow of travel on the trunk routes.

CROW WING COUNTY ACCOUNT To January 1, 1926

Trunk Highway	Mileage in County	1925 Maintenance	Improvements	Expended Before 1925	Total Outlay Under New Plan

Auto Taxes paid in 1925.....	89,792
Auto Taxes paid before 1925.....	252,100
	$377,404

Net Advance under Babcock plan to Crow Wing county.....$564,597

County reimbursement bonds are credited not only with enabling the state to show gains in this and most other counties but with making possible nearly half of the improvements to date by advancing necessary working capital. All counties except Koochiching, Lake of the Woods and Roseau have issued such bonds. The liabilities have been assumed by the state, however, which is providing for their redemption through a sinking fund and paying interest also from current motor vehicle and gasoline taxes.

Only Hennepin and Ramsey counties, in which are located Minneapolis and St. Paul, have paid auto and gas taxes in sums exceeding outlays to date on trunk highways within their respective borders. They have the largest numbers of road users, however, and are held to benefit indirectly for their contributions to the state highway fund. With St. Louis county, including Duluth, these counties pay about a third of the total auto and gas taxes.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY TEA

Pleasant Function Given by Ladies
Auxiliary of the
A. O. H.

The annual St. Patrick's day tea given by the ladies auxiliary of the A. O. H. at the K. C. hall Wednesday afternoon was a very pleasant and pretty affair. The musical program was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Mal D. Clark, in splendid voice sang a group of songs. Mrs. Clark's first number "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," was especially pleasing. Miss Geraldine Kiebler, with her usual sweetness and charm, played two beautiful violin solos.

Mrs. John H. Krekelberg, always a favorite, sang a group of songs delightfully. Miss Mildred O'Brien was accompanist at the piano.

Rev. Father James Hogan was present and gave a short talk that delighted his hearers. Father Enright and Father McCaffrey of Deerpark were also called upon and responded with a few well chosen remarks.

Mrs. Con O'Brien and Mrs. James O'Connor presided over the perfectly appointed tea table. They were assisted by the Mesdames Joseph Murphy, Benjamin Lind, Jay O'Brien, Clem Ryan, I. W. Quinlan, Harry O'Brien and Jay Bachelder.

HOSPITAL DRIVE UNDER WAY

Necessary to Meet Some Old Obligations of Northwestern Hospital

The drive for Northwestern hospital is well under way. Last night about forty canvassers from the different churches met and turned in their first reports and laid plans for a thorough and speedy completion of the campaign.

Many of our citizens do not realize what an asset this fine modern fire-proof hospital is to our city and the surrounding country, nor what a calamity it would be to have it closed for lack of funds or fall into the hands of irresponsible parties who would divert it to unworthy uses.

In spite of the fact that it is well filled with patients all the time and is fully paying its way it is imperative that a considerable sum of money be raised in this drive or the hospital will be compelled to close because of the pressure of old obligations which can no longer be pushed aside.

The present canvass is intended to reach the people of limited means and it is expected that many will make genuine sacrifice to save this valuable institution.

Ormseth-Holmes

The bride was attired in a dress of old rose canton crepe, trimmed with lace and ribbon. The bridesmaid's gown was of dark salmon pink trimmed in gold lace and flowers.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party motored to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, in West Brainerd.

where a delicious wedding luncheon was served, covers being laid for eighteen. The tables and rooms were prettily decorated with pink and white crepe paper.

The happy couple took the afternoon train for Minneapolis, where they will spend a week visiting his sisters. Following their return they will make their home on the farm of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ormseth, at South Long Lake.

LIONS IN 7TH 100 PCT. MEETING

All Members Attend to Celebrate St.

Attendance

W. F. WIELAND SPEAKS

Members Discuss Matters of Civic Welfare, Speaker Urges All to Boost City

The Lions club last night met to celebrate St. Patrick's day with another 100 percent attendance meeting, their seventh consecutive perfect meeting. Committees reported on some work now under way putting up signs around Brainerd, showing tourists the location of the rest rooms in this city.

Other matters discussed at the meeting included report on investigation of the band stand in Gregory park with a view to screening the stand and adding a comfort station.

County Attorney W. F. Wieland was the speaker of the evening, giving a fine talk on the value of Brainerd as a city and of boosting our city. He mentioned the evil effects of broadcasting unfavorable news concerning our town, pointing out that if we should check up business as compared with former years and other localities, we might often find business to be good, not "rotten."

Cubs Alderman and Strout furnished a cryptograph as part of the program, and Cub Dr. Carl Anderson rendered a pleasing vocal solo. Cub Walter Murphy was in charge of the program.

The Lions club is going out 100 per cent to make Brainerd the best town on the map.

Church

The Rev. Edwin Jacques of Emo, Ontario, Canada will be the special preacher at the midweek Lenten service that is held tonight at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Juniper and Seventh streets, at 7:45 o'clock. As the service, including the sermon, only lasts forty-five minutes it affords those who have an engagement for the later part of the evening to attend this special Lenten service and keep their engagements later.

Rev. Jacques is a graduate of Wycliff college, Toronto, Canada, and is one of the younger clergymen of the Church of England in Canada, having graduated but two years ago this spring. While in college he won distinction in innumerable oratorical contests, also having won the oratorical prize for the senior class the year he graduated. He is considered by many as one of the most promising of the clergy in the Canadian church.

The public is cordially invited to these special Lenten services.

The Job That Came to Helen

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

"PETER, you don't understand," said Helen for the tenth time that evening. It was midsummer then and they were walking together along the ocean's edge.

"Cut that out about my not understanding," said Peter, not without some courtesy. "I understand what you think you mean—you mean that you think just because you have spent four years in college and have come off with a degree you are too well educated to be my wife. Rot and rubbish! What I also understand is that I love you very much, in spite of your foolish notions, and that you are not the sort of girl, Helen De Voe, who is going to be content with just a career, if that's what you call it."

"I'll always go on caring a great deal for you, Peter," she said and there was a little quiver in her voice. "Only now that I've got my degree I really think I ought to use it. I can't give up my ideals—even for you, Peter."

Helen wanted to succeed in some sort of business. So one fine day she went to the city carrying with her some nice little letters of introduction to officers of several banks and bond concerns which she had begged from the president of her home bank.

As for the bank officers—they didn't even take the trouble to see her. Helen was told that she would have to send in a request by mail for an appointment if she wished to see them. So she tried her luck with the bond dealers and brokers. She was utterly unprepared for the cool reception she received.

Then one day she managed to see a Mr. Kelly, vice president or something of one of the business offices to which she had contrived to get a letter of introduction.

"I don't want anyone around here to help run this business," he growled after she had hopefully recounted her qualifications. "Our pay roll is too long as it is. Nobody's really interested. They just do their own little jobs and draw their salaries and hurry home at half-past four. Do you think any of the girls around here would take it upon themselves to see that my private office was kept cleaned? Not much. All they'd have to do would be to keep after the cleaning woman—stay after hours once in a while to see that she did the work. But no, they wouldn't think of such a thing."

"I'm sorry," said Helen, and after Mr. Kelly had further unburdened himself and somehow apologized to Helen for troubling her with what didn't interest her, she took her departure.

"But I am interested—and perhaps what you have said will give me an idea," she said. "One or two of the other men I've talked to seemed to have trouble of somewhat the same sort."

But when Helen reached her home that week-end she was thoroughly discouraged. True, she had a little plan in the back of her mind, but when she came to consider it, it didn't seem so very good after all. Late that Saturday afternoon she telephoned to Peter. "I'm sorry I said what I did to you," she said. "Maybe it is cowardly, but I'm going to ask you to give me another chance. You see, I don't believe that there ever would be a chance for me in the big business world. Why, the only possible chance I saw was to turn to and keep offices clean. Honestly I actually worked out a sort of scheme of hiring some cleaning women and opening a little office to take contracts for cleaning offices and personally supervising the whole matter. I wrote to Mr. Kelly about it. But nothing came even of that. So, Peter, if you want me you can have me."

And of course Peter took Helen in his arms, beyond measure pleased to find her in this humble frame of mind. Of course, he knew that Helen was accepting him because she had found no chance in business.

A few days later came a letter, signed by one J. H. Kelly.

"I didn't see any chance of giving you a job," said Mr. Kelly, "but since reading your letter and considering your plans for an office-cleaning agency I think perhaps we could come to some agreement. I see you have brains and courage. I'm interested in your plan and would be willing to back such a venture and finance it. We could make it a sort of side issue. Meantime you could be of real use to me here in this office, and I guess I could mention a salary that would appeal to you."

Helen read the letter at first with eagerness. This Mr. Kelly, she had found out, was a thoroughly reliable business man of high standing. And he had appreciated her qualifications—he really felt that he could make use of her.

Helen reread the letter and put it in her desk. She would answer it later in the day. Meantime she must keep her appointment with Peter. They were going to consult with an architect about building a little dovecot for two.

Church to Have Clinic

Dr. Thomas W. Jeffrey, pastor of the Central Methodist church of Spokane, Wash., plans to install a clinic for the physically ailing in his church, and if possible arrange for the issuance of a weekly newspaper to tell his members what is going on. The idea is to make of a church a practical social agency. Doctors who have membership in the church will be asked to operate the clinic as their special contribution to the work of the church.

Where Name Gamaliel Occurs in the Bible

Two men by the name of Gamaliel are spoken of in the Bible. The periods in which they lived were widely separated. The name of the first is found in Numbers 1:10. He was the son of Pedahazur, a prince or captain of the Tribe of Manasseh, and he is here mentioned in connection with the census of Sinai. He again mentioned in chapters 2:20; 7:54 and 10:23, the latter reference being to Gamaliel as captain of the Tribe of Manasseh at the starting of the Israelites on their march through the wilderness. The second Gamaliel was a Pharisee and celebrated doctor of the law, who gave sound worldly advice to the Sanhedrin respecting the treatment of the followers of our Lord. This will be found in Acts 5:34. It is also learned from 22:3 that he was the teacher of St. Paul when the latter was a young man zealously devoted to Judaism. He is generally identified with the very celebrated Jewish doctor, Gamaliel, who was the son of Rabbi Simeon, and grandson of the celebrated Hillel. He was president of the Sanhedrin, the great council of the Jews, during the reigns of the Roman emperors Tiberius, Caligula and Claudius.

Science Vainly Seeks New Sources of Silk

In spite of the enormous increase in the production of artificial silk, real silkworm silk is just as much sought after as ever, and is even more expensive than formerly. So much so that attempts have been made to find other insects to produce it.

Spiders have been tried, and other caterpillars besides that of the silkworm moth, but without much success. The oddest source from which silk has been obtained is a shellfish, a sort of mussel, called the "pinna" and found in the Mediterranean.

This creature fastens itself to the rocks with fine and very strong threads, which can be spun into lovely golden yellow silk.

But it is not likely that sea silk will ever be a commercial proposition. The thread is very short, the filaments being not more than three inches long. Also, it takes more than three thousand of the fish to produce one pound of silk. Yet a little is produced and worked in Sicilian coast villages.

The Judge's Retinue

Mr. Justice Sankey, in the course of a lecture in London on old-time judicial customs, spoke of the days when a judge had to be accompanied by the sheriff with a retinue of 200 men when traveling from Newcastle to Carlisle to protect him from the raids of Scotsmen who sometimes came over the border to take off the judge for ransom.

In the passing of time, the sheriff's got "fed up" with this expense, and asked the judges to accept danger money in order to provide their own escorts. To this day the custom prevails in Newcastle of presenting the judge on circuit with danger money, the sum being one golden guinea.

Study of Revelations

The book of Enoch is an apocryphal book, first mentioned in the Epistle of Jude 14-15 and quoted by Clement of Alexandria, Origen and Tertullian. It purports to be a series of revelations of God made to Enoch and gives a history of the kingdom of God and the secret origin of laws of nature. It was much quoted in Jewish and Christian writings during the first five centuries after Christ; but disappeared with the exception of a few fragments about 800 A. D. The book furnishes information concerning Jewish theology and speculation during the centuries immediately preceding the Christian era.—Kansas City Star.

Thought in Lower Animals

Just as the monkey or orang-utan behave and think precisely as men do, so we find many animals, birds and insects thinking, and it is this capacity to benefit by the teachings of experience, the cultivation of memories and the power to reason clearly, quickly and logically that enables them to find ways and means for securing themselves in comfort during the coldest days of winter.

They do this in innumerable ways, and many species appear to exhibit greater intelligence and foresight than man in preparing for the winter season.

Finest of All Oils

Watchmakers' oil, the finest of its kind in the world, is obtained from the jaws of the porpoise by the Passamaquoddy Indians, who live on the coast of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Maine. The jaws are hung up in the sun, and the oil as it drips from them is caught in cans, placed below. Only about half a pint comes from each jaw. The oil commands high prices, and in late years it has become so expensive that its use in the delicate machinery of lighthouses has been abandoned.

To Test Pearls

In Paris not long ago a group of the world's greatest pearl merchants watched a French scientist pour gently a handful of pearls into a tube containing what appeared to be water. Some sank to the bottom, but others floated.

"Gentlemen," the scientist said, "you will find that the pearls light enough to float in this fluid are natural pearls. Those that sank are cultivated Japanese pearls," says Popular Science Monthly.

ANOTHER FLOOD OF SELLING

New York, March 18.—(UP)—Another flood of selling was loosened in today's session forcing substantial recessions in active stock throughout the list. Whereas the previous day's trading had been marked by weakness in special groups like the leathers, chain stores and food products issues, the pressure today was quite general, having depressing effect on General Electric, American Can, Allied Chemical, Baldwin, American Locomotive, Railway Steel Spring and other standard industrials. Motors were also subjected to concentrating offerings, bad breaks occurring in Hudson, Chrysler and Dodge.

Rails were relatively steady due to the support accorded by Chesapeake & Ohio's dividend action.

Even in this group it was evident that constructive interests were content to maintain existing levels without attempting to bid up prices, even in instances where such operations appeared justified by current operations and immediate prospects.

Support appeared in the general list but price movements continued extremely nervous and erratic. The market closed lower.

How She Gained 10 Pounds in 22 Days

Skinny Men Can Do the Same

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

As chock full of vitamins as the nasty, fishy-tasting cod liver oil itself, but these sugar-coated, tasteless tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, and if you don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

"Phantom of the Opera" Super-Picture Wakes Interest

Since the rumor first gained headway that the Park theatre, was bargaining with Carl Laemmle for a local showing of the French mystery super-thriller, "The Phantom of the Opera," featuring Lon Chaney supported by Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry, a host of well-known principals and a vast cast, the management has been stormed with inquiries as to the date of showing.

This spectacle will be shown at the New Park on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The local manager was frank to say that negotiations had been delayed for a time due to the exceptional cost of bringing the big feature to Brainerd, a cost that seemed to him prohibitive, until the persistent demand of his patrons made the showing imperative.

Plain Hemstitching is Very Easy Operation

There are several kinds of hemstitching to be dealt with. For plain hemstitching draw the number of threads called for in the direction of the article you are making. If the hemstitching is near the edge, turn the hem up to the edge of the drawn thread, baste it in and hem it with the hemstitching.

Hold the wrong side toward you and with No. 60 cotton join thread securely in left-hand end. Pass needle behind from five to eight of the drawn threads. Draw the threads through and pass the needle back through the loop of thread at the bottom. This stitch should catch the material and hem, if there is one. Pass the needle behind the next group of threads and continue to work in the same manner all the way across.

When a row of single stitching is complete you can work the other side in the same way.
